Advances in anesthesia have made elective procedures safer, with a low rate of anesthetic complications. However, complications can arise because of pre-existing conditions not evident during previous examinations. In order to evaluate your pet's current health status, a pre-anesthetic examination will be performed by a veterinarian. In certain rare circumstances a condition may exist that is not evident on physical examination or pre-anesthetic screening, which could result in an anesthetic complication. All patients undergoing anesthesia will be given fluids before the procedure. Patients will be monitored during and after anesthesia. Pain relief medication will be administered in hospital and dispensed for use at home at the discretion of the veterinarian.

We recommend pre-anesthetic blood screening prior to all anesthetic procedures. This is required for all patients six years of age and older. This information helps us know if we need to take specific precautions with your pet or postpone the procedure pending treatment. Tests done more than 90 days prior to the anesthesia will need to be repeated.
